Jo & Brydie Play Doctor

From the creators of smash hit Princess Cabaret (Edinburgh Fringe 2009, 2010) comes an uplifting stand-up show about flaws, the power of friendship and late 90s gangsta rap.

Jo and Brydie are best friends. You know the sort - they're just like those girls in that coming of age comedy, or those women in that popular TV show. They wear pants when they travel and they live in a city! But they're not without their problems. Brydie's lactose intolerant and sometimes genuinely believes she's Buffy. Jo can't drive and her mum is dead. Seriously.

Unable to fix their own problems, it's time for Jo and Brydie to play doctor and heal each other. These two talented comedienne will prove that laughter really is the best medicine (unless you're actually sick).

Jo and Brydie are an engaging comedy duo with a dynamic that is "full of energy, delightful" (Chortle, Australia & NZ), "witty and...endearing" (The Pun, Melbourne). They have performed together in more than 10 comedy seasons over the last 4 years, including the hugely successful sketch show Princess Cabaret. Written and directed by Brydie, this show earned 4 stars from The Scotsman and featured "dynamite pacing, impressive writing, and precise comic timing" (Three Weeks). The show also benefits from script editing by Edinburgh Fringe veteran Jordan Raskopoulos, front man for The Axis of Awesome.

Play Doctor is the team's most personal endeavour yet; a hilarious, "cringingly relatable" (The Pun) examination of imperfections and the challenges and rewards of friendship.

"Full of energy, delightful." Chortle (Australia & NZ)

"The jokes are cringingly relatable, the "problems" hilarious and the solutions even funnier... The dialogue is witty, the style and pace fun, and the girls are endearing." The Pun

"You leave wanting to be their best friend." The Funny Tonne
